Reading Tips and Strategies

When you read at home with your kids, follow the R.E.A.D. plan.

R - Repeat Books

E - Engage and Enjoy

A - Ask Questions

D - Do More

This week we will focus on the A: Ask Questions. The following are examples of activities you could do at home when reading with your child following the R.E.A.D. plan:

- As your child reads, ask questions that start with who, what, where, when, why, and how. If your child does not answer with an appropriate response, redirect by saying, "I think you mean a person because it was a 'who' question" then restate the question.
- After you read a few pages, ask "What do you think will happen next?"

- Help your child make connections to his/her life experience while reading. You could say, "Is there anything you read in the story that reminds you of something? The boy who went to the zoo with his family reminds me of when we went to the zoo over the summer. What do you think?"

Our Middle School Humanities students have been hard at work filming and producing documentaries about the U.S. Constitution and their interpretation of how it impacts our lives today. See the below flyer for information regarding a screening night. We hope you'll join us in celebrating their hard work! Please note: masks are required at all times for those in attendance.
