Hello RPSA Families,

The students this week have continued to work hard on their PBL projects and collaboration skills. Check out their great work in the Around the School Section. Our Islanders are getting ready to go on their first all day field trip next week. Fingers crossed the weather cooperates and gives them a sunny warm day to explore Forest Hill.

We want your feedback and input throughout the school year. Please watch the newsletter for a quick survey that we plan to include every other week. We will report back results and action steps when appropriate based on the input we receive.

This week's survey is around connections and communication between home and school. Please rate your experience so far this year. If you have more than one Renaissance Ram please fill out the survey for each student independently. This survey will be open for responses until Thursday, September 29.

THINGS TO REMEMBER FOR NEXT WEEK:

- Please remember to send a snack with your child daily. With the change in our breakfast and lunch program we are unable to provide snacks to students.
- We continue to see an increase in sickness. Please call the office to see what protocols need to be followed based on your child's symptoms.
- Check out the athletics section on the website to see when upcoming sporting events and tryouts will be happening. Come out and support our athletes.
- Please remember to send a coat or sweatshirt with your student so they are not chilly during recess.
- The office is open and not as busy from 9:00am - 2:30pm to make any payments.

Around the School this Week!

This week in PBL , Trailblazer students created a "sunset in a bag." Students used hands-on learning to observe as they created chemical reactions. By adding different materials, ordinary tap water began to turn all the colors of the sunset-and even changed temperature all right before their eyes! Their favorite reaction was when gas was produced and began to inflate their bags!

Middle School Students in Humanities continue to make progress on their "cave build" for their Museum Project.

Islanders participated in a team building exercise related to their ecosystem projects.
